

MEMORIAL RESOLUTION OF THE FACULTY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON

ON THE DEATH OF ASSISTANT PROFESSOR EMERITUS MILTON R. WAHL

Milton R. Wahl, emeritus assistant professor of food science, passed away on 5 July 1999 in Madison, Wisconsin. He is survived by his wife.

Professor Wahl was born in Spring Green, Wisconsin on 29 December 1914. He earned his B.S. degree in 1938 from the University of Wisconsin-Madison with a major in dairy industry. After graduation, he worked as a production manager of a Pennsylvania milk company. He returned to the Madison campus and served as supervisor of the Babcock Hall Dairy Plant from 1949 to 1965. During this time, the plant capacity was increased to supply products to the university dormitories, the state hospital, the Memorial Union and the Babcock salesroom. This was also the period when the fame of Babcock Hall ice cream grew, for which Milt was justly proud. Professor Wahl relinquished supervisory duties in 1965 and assisted in teaching a variety of processing courses to undergraduates and short course students. Professor Wahl retired in 1976 to enjoy his favorite past times: UW sports, hunting, fishing and gardening.
